

Urban resilience and territorial sustainability

In this session, we will discuss ways to strengthen urban resilience and territorial sustainability through advances in artificial intelligence; Because beyond the smart technology that leads us to models of smart cities fragmented, it is time to address these models in a holistic and heuristic way through an innovative and integrated urban and territorial planning.